CITB SMSTS Training Course

Documentation is a vital stage in any health and safety programme as it is impossible to check on conditions of work without adequate record keeping. Site managers have often gained their position by working up from a more manual role and so it is very important that they receive training in record keeping and health and safety legislation.

The CITB Site Safety Plus Site Manager Safety Training Scheme (SMSTS) health & safety training programme is acknowledged as one of the best courses that the construction industry has to offer and it is no surprise that over 10,000 delegates attend the course annually.

The CITB SMSTS is now available through Boss and is intended for all managers and those who wish to seek employment as managers in the near future. It adds immeasurably to their understanding of what is expected of them and others on site in respect of current H&S legislation.

The CITB SMSTS takes five weeks at one day release per week and during it, delegates are set and must pass a number of key exercises. There is a final exam, success in which results in the awarding of the CITB certificate, which is valid for five years. After expiry, holders can take a two day refresher course to make sure their knowledge is still current.
